I dedicate this thesis to those who always ask:

"When will your thesis be finished?"

Graduating late or graduating not on time is not a crime, nor is it a disgrace. It would be dwarfing to measure one's intelligence only by who graduates the fastest. The best thesis that is completed, isn't it?

There may be something behind their late graduation, and my reason here is good.

Believe me, because every cloud has a silver lining.

Do not compare the distance you fly, but how and what you go through.
