One of the 2013 curriculum policies is the use of seTARA daring. SeTARA daring was created to make it easier for students to take part in learning anywhere and anytime. PKBM Gema Tasikmalaya City in one of the best PKBM in Tasikmalaya, therefore in 2018 it was made one of the pilot community education institutions in using seTARA daring because many residents who study the equality program can't take part in direct learning and in accordance with the purpose of using this seTARA daring. This research aims to explain and describe the use of seTARA daring as a learning media implemented by the package C equality program at PKBM Gema Tasikmalaya City. This research uses a descriptive method with a qualitative approach. This research data collection technique uses observation, interview and documentation techniques. The research results show that the planning stage includes clearly formulating the objectives of using seTARA daring, the series and process of learning activities, as well as the scope of learning. The implementation stage includes learning methods, teaching materials or learning materials, learning media, teaching and learning processes and motivation. The evaluation stage includes assessment of learning models, learning assessment criteria and learning evaluation. In the implementation process, the tutor prepares teaching material units that will be uploaded from the subject module which is divided into sub materials. Tutors upload learning materials, learning videos and assignments according to their lesson schedule at the specified time. The conclusion of this research is that the use of seTARA daring as learning media in the package C equality program is carried out with thorough learning starting from planning, actuating and evaluation.
