

PREFACE

This research proposal entitled “EFL students’ internet self-efficacy in their English learning” is submitted as partial fulfillment of the requirements for attaining Sarjana Pendidikan Degree at English Education Department, Faculty of Educational Sciences and Teachers’ Training, Siliwangi University, Tasikmalaya.

This research comprises background information, a literature review, and a research procedure. The background information provides a context of the research related to internet self-efficacy, formulation of the problems, operational definitions, aims of the study, and significance. The literature review briefly explains self-efficacy, internet self-efficacy, and English language learning. The research design used in this study is a descriptive case study. The data collected through semi-structured interviews will be analyzed using thematic analysis by Braun & Clarke (2006).

The researcher realizes that this research proposal is still far from perfect. Furthermore, researchers expect constructive suggestions and input for further research. Finally, the researcher hopes that this research proposal could be a valuable resource for readers who want to analyze the same subject as in this research proposal.
