

ABSTRAC

Riska Mustika Sari, 2025. "The Influence of Prosocial Behavior of Student and Organizational Activity on Learning Motivation and Its Implications for Learning Achievement (Survey on Student Council Members at Public High Schools in Tasikmalaya City)." Department of Economics Education, Faculty of Teacher Training and Science Education, Siliwangi University, Tasikmalaya. Under the guidance of Dr. Ai Nur Solihat, S.Pd., M.Pd., and Ati Sadiah, S.Pd., M.Pd.

This study aims to determine the effect of student prosocial behavior and organizational activeness on learning motivation and its implications for learning achievement. The research method used is survey method with explanatory design. The population in this study were student council members in public high schools in Tasikmalaya City, totaling 204 students. The sampling technique used random sampling. The data collection technique was carried out through a questionnaire and the analysis technique used was path analysis. The results showed that there was a positive and significant influence between prosocial behavior on learning motivation, there was a positive and significant influence between organizational activeness on learning motivation, there was a significant influence between prosocial behavior on learning achievement, there was a positive and significant influence between organizational activeness on learning achievement, there was a positive and significant influence on learning motivation on learning achievement, there was a positive and significant influence between student prosocial behavior on learning achievement through learning motivation, and there was a positive and significant influence between organizational activeness on learning achievement through learning motivation.

Keywords: Prosocial Behavior, Organizational Activity, Learning Motivation, Learning Achievement