“No matter how hard it gets, we will believe in our path, because we can dream about the new world we will create. So, we’re about to take our first step towards the new world and this will be going to shake the world.”

“This thesis is far from perfect, and its findings will not change the world. However, completing this thesis is a proud achievement. Thank you to myself for the hard work and perseverance that have been put in. This dedication is dedicated to my mother, my late father, my older sister and brother, my thesis advisor, fellow classmates, and everyone who has supported and encouraged me, especially those who have consistently inquired about the progress of this thesis.”
