

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to Allah, the Most Gracious and the Most Merciful, who has given me health, patience, and guidance throughout the process of completing this thesis. I would also like to acknowledge and extend my sincere appreciation to:

1. English Education Department of Siliwangi University, for being the intellectual home that provided the resources and academic environment where my ideas could grow.
2. The honorable Head of the English Education Department, Faculty of Educational Sciences and Teachers' Training, Siliwangi University, for the opportunity to embark on this scholarly journey.
3. My first supervisor, Dr. Agis Andriani, M.Hum. Words often falter when trying to describe the depth of my gratitude, Ibu. Thank you for everything I can't even put words into; may Allah ease your path just as you have eased mine.
4. My second supervisor, Neni Marlina, S.Pd., M.Pd. Thank you for the dedication and time you've poured into refining this work, Ibu.
5. My dearest parents, Jhon Setiawan, Ni Made Astini, and Kompyang Yodi Arista Dewi. I am the harvest of your sacrifices and the person I am today is because of your unwavering faith in me. There is no debt I can ever repay that equals to the love you've given. May Allah, in His infinite mercy, gather us all together in the warmth of His Jannah one day.
6. My beloved siblings, Eka Indra Permana, Deden Deni Setiawan, Meysitha Kurnia Dewi, and Noviyanti Sari. Thank you for being the quiet architecture of my support system and for the way you have relentlessly celebrated every version of me.
7. To my entire extended family, for never failing to be my second home and for the layers of prayers that shielded me during my hardest moments.
8. Ni Kadek Ratih Ranupadma, my day one and my other half. Thank you for standing in the trenches with me and for understanding the parts of my journey that words couldn't quite capture. 18 years down together and still counting.

9. Usamah Jundulloh Azzam, the greatest brother figures any sister could ever ask for. Thank you for being my reliable "911" for all eight semesters and for being the family I found along the way. Thank you for standing beside me through every high and low, and for being the kind of presence that made even the hardest days more bearable.
10. Indriati Peramarani, my kindhearted high school seatmate. Your love and support have been a significant factor of my thesis completion process, and I would choose your company in a million lifetimes over.
11. Widhya Iswari and Dharma Kumari, for a friendship that remains unweathered by time and for being the mirrors that remind me of where I came from.
12. Denys Ryandika and Wahyu Dananjaya, my brothers since high school. I can't thank you enough for all the time you guys have comforted me during hard times and cheered for me the loudest during good times.
13. Niti Suari, Ida Ayu Nia Paramita, and Sindy Suwandewi, my best friends since junior high. Thank you for a decade of memories and for witnessing the slow evolution of who I am today.
14. "Galaxy 22" & Class A'22 "Affectionity", my family for these past eight semesters. Thank you for the shared struggles and the collective joy that made university life more than just about the academics.
15. To everyone else whose names may not be written here but whose faith in me never wavered, thank you. Whether it was a brief word of encouragement or a silent prayer, your kindness has been a vital part of this journey, and I am deeply grateful for every part of it.
16. Lastly, to my dearest Zoe, whose quiet presence and soft purrs were the most honest form of stress relief during the quiet battles of this final year.
