

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

All praises and thanks are due to Allah subhānahu wata‘ālā for his blessing and mercy that I was given the strength and opportunity to finish this thesis, regardless of the challenges and constraints. My strength to finish the thesis didn't come from myself alone, but also comes from numerous figures in my life. Thus, the author would like to express the gratitudes to

1. Head of the English Language Education Study Program, for the invaluable support and assistance both in academic and administrative matters.
2. Dr. Agis Andriani, M.Hum., first supervisor, who is always ready to correct and guide me throughout the process, for understanding my work and who I am beyond my role as student, and for keeping my faith to trust my process.
3. Dea Silvani, S.Pd., M.Pd. second supervisor who provided me corrections and invaluable advice, and for the keen eyes that spot the mistakes i missed.
4. All lecturers of the English Language Education Study Program, Faculty of Education and Teacher Training, Siliwangi University, for sharing their knowledge and aiding me with their expertise throughout the teaching and learning process.
5. Friends from English Education Department, for sharing their experiences and widening my social network
6. Myself, for facing all the challenges despite the odds and my Aspergers.
7. My beloved family, Father who funded my education, Mother who always cared for my well-being in every way possible, and my brother who drive me to be a good example for him.
8. The families of my aunt and grandma, where I spend most of my time studying there.

9. My closest friends from Melati Gang, Ilham Akbar, Daffa Akbar Ramadhan, and Muhammad Ramadhan Wanfa, and Muhammad Naufal Tsabit Abiyyu. My fellows whom I share my struggles, tales, and hope with.
